INTRODUCTION

The Ivor Novello Awards are presented twice a year to celebrate creative excellence by British, Irish or UK-resident songwriters and composers.

These are the official rules for the 71st presentation of The Ivors. The eligibility period for this presentation is 1 January to 31 December 2025.

To be eligible across all award categories, works must meet a minimum threshold of authorship by a British, Irish or UK-resident songwriter or composer. This requirement does not apply to the Special International Award or Academy Fellowship.

Songwriting Awards recognise songs or albums commercially released in the UK within the eligibility period; individuals demonstrating outstanding songwriting achievements; and young songwriting talent demonstrating exceptional potential.

Composing Awards recognise original music written for feature film and television broadcast on general release in the UK during the eligibility period.
